

THOUSANDS PASS BIER OF GEN. BOOTH LYING IN STATE

All Classes Represented in Throng That Joins Salvation
Army in Mourning.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—The body of the late Gen. William Booth lay in state to-day and the occasion produced a display of sincere respect from all classes that has probably never been exceeded here. All nations and all creeds were represented among the many thousands of people who paid their last tribute to the evangelist.

Even before dawn despite a cold rain thousands were waiting in front of Congress Hall, Clapton, in the north-east of London, where the body had been conveyed from the late General's residence. Before the general public was admitted, however, a large number of personal friends, public officials and high officers of the Salvation Army paid their last respects.

USUAL SIGNS OF MOURNING ABSENT.

Then from 10 o'clock onward a constant stream of humanity unchecked throughout the day filed in reverent silence past the catafalque. Poorly clad women had tramped miles through the driving downpour to obtain a last sight of the man who had brought some sunshine into their lives. Shoulder to shoulder with them were fashionably dressed women who desired to pay their homage to the dead Christian leader and sufferer.

The usual signs of mourning were not visible. Flying over the great hall at the top of a tall flagpole was the Salvation Army banner with "Blood and Fire" upon it. Draped above the doorway were a Union Jack and a German flag supported on each side by the Stars and Stripes of the United States and the Rising Sun of Japan. Except for Salvation Army flag there was not a banner in the hall.

The plain hardwood casket was covered with a pall made of the Salvation Army coat of arms, which supported, instead of a sword, the dead General's favorite Bible, hymn book and famous campaign cap.

The coffin rested on a marble base underneath a huge canopy of gold and white muslin draped with red and blue. Standing at the four corners of the bier casket held the flags of Great Britain, the United States, Japan and Germany.

At the foot of the casket stood the last portrait of the dead General, while at his head was a painting of the late Mrs. Booth.

BROOKLYN GIRL IS BRIDE OF SENATOR WHOSE WIFE FLED

J. F. Shaw, a Bostonian,
Whom Chauffeur Robbed of Wife, Weds Miss Kenyon.

Former State Senator James F. Shaw of Massachusetts is on his honeymoon with his second wife, lately Miss Lois Kenyon of No. 542 Carroll street, Brooklyn. His first wife, who was Miss Nettie Eldridge of Portsmouth, N. H., disappeared in 1908 with Keno Marble, the family chauffeur.

Owing to the recent death of Mr. Shaw's mother, last night's ceremony at the Kenyon home was a quiet one. The bride's father, George W. Kenyon, is at the head of a large lithograph concern.

Mr. Shaw is the president of the Interborough Railroad of Boston, and once was prominent in politics as an opponent within the Republican ranks of Senator Lodge. He is a man of considerable wealth, and owns a fine home at Manchester, Mass.

In 1906 Mr. Shaw married Miss Nettie Eldridge, daughter of H. F. Eldridge, a millionaire banker of Portsmouth, N. H. There and in Boston she was received in the best society. In May, 1908, she left her husband. She took with her to her father's home their son, now fourteen years old. Subsequently she went to Pasadena, Cal. Detectives employed by Shaw, who got on the trail when it was found that H. Keno Marble, Shaw's chauffeur, was also missing, traced her from Pasadena to Santa Barbara, where they reported she was known as Mrs. Marble. The former chauffeur was run in a moving picture theatre in Santa Barbara. The detectives raided a furnished room house there and found the couple.

"Go back to Mr. Shaw!" exclaimed Mrs. Shaw after the raid. "No, no! I never would have married him had it not been for my father. He forced me into the marriage and had it not been for my father I would have left him years ago. Then I fell in love with Mr. Marble. It is true that he was only a servant, but what of that? In a great many ways he more nearly filled my ideal of what a man ought to be. So I left everything for him."

Mr. Shaw sued for divorce, naming Marble, but Mrs. Shaw entered a counter suit, naming a woman prominent socially in Boston. As Mr. Shaw did not defend this suit she divorced him and was awarded the custody of her son in April, 1910. In December of that year she was married to Marble.

Senator Shaw and his new bride are gone on a two weeks' motoring tour through the Berkshires. On their return they will live at No. 79 West Fifty-fifth street, this city. The Senator is thirty-nine and his bride twenty-three.

SLIPPED AND WAS ROBBED.

Policeman Saw Four Negroes Carry Their Victim Aways.

Edward McNeil of No. 630 West One Hundred and Thirty-first street, a burly negro with his left arm in a sling, was arraigned in Harlem Court to-day, charged with having been one of four men who beat Frederick Kuhuke, a painter, and robbed him of $44.

Kuhuke was on his way to his home at No. 130 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street when he had a fall in front of No. 61 West One Hundred and Twenty-first street. He had been at a wake, but he says it was a banana peel that caused his accident. Policeman Reynolds of the West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street station walked by and saw that Kuhuke was being assisted to his feet by four negroes, one of whom he thought he recognized as McNeil. A half hour later Kuhuke, with eyes blackened and face bruised, staggered into the station house and said he had been robbed. The black Samaritans, he said, had dragged him into a doorway when the policeman was out of sight and taken his $44 roll. Reynolds, who knew where McNeil lived, went to his home and arrested him.

SHOPLIFTING CHARGED.

Merchant's Wife Is Accused of Taking Jewelry in Store.

Mrs. Etta L. Leonard, wife of a merchant in New Bedford, Mass., was charged in the Jefferson Market Court this morning with shoplifting in the jewelry department of an uptown store. Her lawyer said she was arrested on the charge eight months ago and discharged, and that her husband dealt in jewelry himself and can supply her with all the trinkets she wants. The lawyer said he would waive examination for his client, so Magistrate Appleton held her in $2,000 bail for trial in special sessions.

Mrs. Leonard, according to her lawyer, came here recently with her husband, who was on a buying tour for his store. He did not appear in court.

"TELL HOLD-UP LIE" COP TOLD HIM TO COVER SHORTAGE

Cashier Had Cleared Out Till to Accommodate Suave
Auto Swindler.

Though he is fresh from a clerkship in a Coney jewelry store, it cost Joseph Harland $16 to-day to have it rubbed into him that all is not gold that glitters. Joseph worked four years in the jewelry store and not long ago decided it was time to come to New York and expand.

There was nothing doing in the jewelry line, so Joseph took a job as chef, head waiter and night manager in a Baltimore lunch room at No. 51 East Fifty-ninth street. In the day-time he sleeps at No. 304 West Twenty-eighth street.

Joseph was dozing in a chair at 4 o'clock this morning when an automobile stopped in front of the luncheon room. Two men and a stylishly dressed young woman occupied it. Joseph snatched behind the counter in expectation of getting a large order to fill, for tourists often stop there to lay in a supply for their early morning spin.

One of the men stepped briskly up, threw back his natty automobile coat and displayed the classic regalia of jewelry that Joseph had ever gazed upon. He seemed to enunciate and scintillate all over. Diamonds as large as pigeon eggs glittered on his fingers. He had a ruby scarfpin with two stones that blinked like the lights on a Broadway subway express, and the charm on his watch chain might have cost a king's ransom.

SIMPLY HAD TO HAVE $25 IN A HURRY.

"Pardon me, old chap," began the stranger, "but I'm in a awful dilemma. I'm from Philadelphia, staying at the Knickerbocker Hotel. I've just been cleaned out in a gambling joint. They didn't leave me a cent and I got out just in time to join my friends for a spin we had arranged beforehand. I've got to have about $25 right now. I can pay it back in an hour, and I'm willing to leave my watch as security."

The lunch man came to his aid, admiring the stranger's long enough to see that the watch, carefully protected by a chainola cover, was a usually good looking piece of jewelry. He felt sorry for this jewel-laden but temporarily penniless young man, and was anxious to make him his friend by doing him a service. Who could tell what good fortune might grow out of this simple act of friendship?

Joseph did have $25 in the cash register, but there were sixteen men in. He could easily let the man have the money until 5 or 6 o'clock, when he promised to return it and redeem his watch.

"A really good of you, old fellow," said the stranger as he pocketed the $25 roll and left his elegant watch with Harland. "I'll not forget it either. It will be no time until I'm back with more money than I know what to do with."

Harland waited an hour and became suspicious. He took the chainola pouch from his pocket and looked at the watch. It was worth possibly $2. During the next few minutes he turned over two chairs and imperilled all the china in the establishment in his excitement.

COP TOLD HIM TO TELL STORY OF HOLDUP.

According to his story about that time a policeman, who often eats in his place, but is not on post in the neighborhood, came in for some coffee. Harland showed him the "phony" watch and tearfully told him how he had cleaned out the cash register for it and what would be likely to happen to his job as soon as the boss came down.

"Well, sonny," he says the cop told him, "what you want to do is to say some one poked a gun in your face and made you come across with the cash. The story will go all right, believe me, only make it clear it wasn't a policeman. There's a think who would try to put it up to one of us right off the bat, but take it from me, with the papers full of 'gray murder cases' and gunmen and gangs of grafters and other kind of bad men, you can get away with it. Tell 'em it was a holdup and they'll fall for it."

Harland says he decided that way out of it looked good. He called to Policeman Kilroy of the East Sixty-seventh street station and told him a thrilling story of how a man from a blue automobile came in, tried to sell him a watch and, on his refusal to buy, stuck a revolver in his face and compelled him to empty the cash register. Then in a cloud of gasoline vapor the bandit car whisked westward.

CONFESSIONS TO CAPTAIN HIS STORY WAS FALSE.

Lieut. Powell was sent to investigate and thought such an interesting tale should be told to Capt. Nally in person. So it came to pass that while policemen all over town were searching for a blue automobile containing a fierce huncuener and a beautiful, stylish lady confederate, Harland was at the East Sixty-seventh street station confessing to a Capt. Nally how he "faked" the holdup at the suggestion and instigation of a member of the uniformed force. He declared his only thought was to save his job, and the police captain, moved by the youth's repentance, promised to help him.

The police recalled the general alarm for the auto bandit and Harland's employment agreed to let him keep his job and pay back the $16. But that didn't end it. Capt. Nally says he wants to get a look at the policeman who inspired the hoax, and he will have the platoon lined up so Harland can pick him out. Harland, being a new-comer, has not seen fit to ask for a body-guard to protect him from "the system" while he's looking for the bluecoated culprit, who will be put on charges if he is found.

GOUSPEPPE SAYS RIVALS "PLANTED" GUN IN POCKET.

Was Strolling With Fair One When Detective Caught Him With Revolver.

Now Giuseppe Fedons has been "Johned" just like "Big Jack" Zella, he says, only it wasn't the police who took a revolver from his pocket, but that of the affection of the beautiful Maria Delbarra.

Giuseppe, who is a coal dealer at No. 4 Greenpoint avenue, Brooklyn, was arraigned in the Essex Market Court to-day, charged with violation of the Sullivan law. In that a .32 calibre revolver was found in the pocket of his new coat, bought especially—the coat—of the gun—for the celebration of the fete of St. Hubert.

GOV. WILSON EVEN HAS VISITORS AT MIDNIGHT.

Descend Upon Summer Capital
With Invitation, but He Slept
Through It All.

SEA GIRT, N. J., Aug. 23.—Gov. Woodrow Wilson early to-day demonstrated his ability to sleep soundly through all manner of noise. Already accustomed to the clamor of freight cars near his cottage during the night, the Governor said to-day he was not disturbed by a party of fifteen people who descended upon the summer capital at midnight in an effort to get the nominee to accept an invitation to attend the water carnival to-morrow at Belmar, N. J., five miles away.

In a trio of automobiles the party came, rang the door bell, called on the telephone and finally roused Mrs. Wilson, who asked them to come at 10 o'clock this morning. "I slept through it all," said Gov. Wilson.

The Governor telephoned the Mayor of Belmar to-day that had he been informed earlier he might have been able to go. The Governor had no special appointments for to-day, but to-morrow he leaves for the University of the newspaper correspondents as a farewell to James Woodrow, the Governor's cousin, who has been attached to the staff of secretaries here. To-morrow he leaves for the University of South Carolina, where he is to be an instructor in mathematics. Joseph E. Daniels, National Committee member from North Carolina, has been selected to-morrow for the dinner.

RAY UNDER CONGRESS FIRE IS PROMOTED BY TAFT.

President Will Leave to Senate Advancement of Officer Accused of Political Activity.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—President Taft to-day sent to the Senate the nomination of Major Boescher B. Ray, U. S. A., to be Deputy Paymaster-General with the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel. Major Ray's alleged political activity in 1908 and other of his acts while in the army have been the subject of a Congressional investigation.

Major Ray is in direct line for promotion under the laws. President Taft has long delayed his nomination awaiting a report of the Congressional committee hearing charges against him. After conferences the President and Secretary Stimson determined to send the nomination and leave its disposition to the Senate.

"SYRUP OF FIGS" FOR INDIGESTION, BILIOUSNESS AND CONSTIPATION.

Better than castor oil, calomel or cathartics to cleanse your stomach, liver and 30 feet of bowels. Harmless Laxative for men, women and children.

Primitive folk did not need laxatives. They lived outdoors, ate plenty of fruit, and all of their food was coarse. We modern people are different. We exercise too little, eat little fruit, and our food is too fine—too rich.

We simply can't have our ten yards of bowels clogged up, liver choked with sour bile and stomach full of foul, effete matter and feel well. It means the food and waste retained in the stomach and thirty feet of bowels ferments—decays. The decay creates poisons, gases and acids, and these poisons are sucked into the blood through the very ducts intended to suck in the nutriment. Then we have sick headache, become dull, bilious, tongue coated, nervous, sleep don't digest, and we're miserable all over. So we must make our choice. We must five like primitive folk, else we must take artificial means to move the excess bile and waste matter on and out of the system.

The safest, most harmless and effective stomach, liver and bowel cleanser and regulator for men, women and children is delicious Syrup of Figs, which doesn't irritate, gripe or weaken. Its effect is the effect of fruits. It is composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics. Don't think you are drugging yourself. Syrup of Figs can be constantly used without harm.

Ask your druggist for "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," and see on the label that it is prepared by The California Fig Syrup Company. This is the only genuine—the old reliable. Refuse, with contempt, the so-called Fig Syrup imitations sometimes offered to deceive you.
